

DEMONSTRATION NOTICE

La Paz, Bolivia

June 10, 2011

4:37 PM

The U.S. Embassy in La Paz has received the following information about announced demonstrations throughout Bolivia:

The transportation union has announced nationwide transportation strikes and protests for Monday, June 13. As announced, the strike is scheduled to last for 24 hours, beginning at midnight on the 13th. The strike may result in the closure of highways throughout the country and the blocking of main thoroughfares into and around major cities. American citizens are encouraged to keep abreast of the local news and check for information on planned travel routes before leaving home or hotel. Additionally, the Embassy cautions Americans not attempt to pass through roadblocks that are encountered.

The U.S. Embassy reminds you that demonstrations and road blockades are not unusual in Bolivia, and even though they might be intended to be peaceful they can turn confrontational between security forces, demonstrators, and bystanders, and escalate into violence. You should avoid them if at all possible. If you find yourself in the vicinity of a large gathering, you should leave the area immediately for your own safety. Be alert and aware of your surroundings and pay attention to what the local news media has to say. Please note that the police have limited capabilities outside major cities and communication is poor.

You can stay in touch and get Embassy updates by checking the Embassy website, found here. You can also get global updates at the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Consular Affairs website where you can find the current Worldwide Caution, Travel Warnings, Travel Alerts, and Country Specific Information.
